The LEGEND gratefully acknowledges the work done by Mrs. Helen Hauptmann's secretarial 58 class. Also our gratitude to Mr. Shostak for his advice on the literary material and to Mr. Eustis for his help with the art work.

We dedicate this LEGEND to the faith that is youth.

To the hopeful in heart, the buoyant in spirit, and to those who exult in the promise of a new and better tomorrow.

May we succeed in converting that faith into substantial achievement.

STANLEY ZUCKERMAN

TO THE CLASS OF JUNE 1950:

Your class can well be called the mid-century class. I graduated from Boys High in 1901 and well remember my first trip to Europe in 1900. The changes that have taken place in these fifty years are many indeed. How many of you will, at my age, in the year 2000 recall with the same pleasure and delight your days at Lafayette and the many changes that will have taken place on this world of ours?

May I wish for each of you, as the years go by, more and more of the zest that comes with the giving of oneself entirely to worthwhile endeavor, of the satisfaction that comes from work fully and successfully completed, of the true happiness that comes from giving one's best and of finding that best good enough to accomplish all that one has dreamt.

Your Principal,

FRED'K WM. OSWALD

Dear Boys and Girls,

I feel humble and grateful for the part I've been allowed to have in these wonderful few years of your lives. It is a great privilege to help boys and girls grow up. You have been the kind of class that has made that privilege an honor. I know your school days at Lafayette have been happy and fruitful ones. I am proud of the scholastic record you have made and proud of the generous service you have rendered and most of all, I'm proud of your whole goodness as people.

My sincerest hope for you is that your goodness of character, willingness to help and devotion to duty is now so a part of you, that it will stay yours forever.

Goodbye and God bless you.

Your Grade Adviser,

VERA V. DUFORT

I Am Gazing Into My Lodestone . . .

by STUART SELBST

In 1492 I discovered America, only it wasn't America then. The only civilized place on the east coast was Brooklyn. So I pulled my ships into Gravesend Bay, made my way down Cropsey Avenue, and planted the flag of Spain on Benson Avenue and Bay 43rd Street. The place looks a little French now, which reminds me of a few photos I took when I first landed, but that can come later.

What's that, you want to know what I'm doing here? Every 500 years we, from up there, get a chance to come back, and since it's 1992, well here I am.

This gimmick over here interests me. What do you call it? Oh, it's a Smellavision set? Do I turn this thing over here? O.K. . . . Who's that? Carl Donato, huh. Was that a joke? I remember when it went—"Who was that Signora I saw you with last night?" Well, well, what have we here? You say that's Danny Shiffman with him? Also an actor? I remember Will Shakespeare. There was an actor. Even wrote his own stuff. Now what's this thing? Why can't I touch it. I'd like to see Arthur Ginsberg's hydrogonium bomb in action. Well, I've got nothing to lose by it. This bomb is possible only since Albert released his formula. Not Einstein, silly, Altman. It goes—one cup milk, one teaspoon Pablum . . . etc. Great formula! Talk about formulas, I like the one that goes, "sugar and spice and everything nice makes Renee Bettleman, Lorraine Hurwitz, Sandy Zavalin, or Joan Grasso."

Aha!—a newspaper. I have to find out how Mama's Borscht made out in the fourth at Sicily. Now look at this in the political section. Fred Stern, publisher of the Chronic, is backing Robert Goodman against Morton Portnoy, who is supported by Stu Selbst's Daily Manner. They're competing for the presidency of the News Advertising Agency. Jordy Hott is chief stockholder since he cornered the market back in '50.

Let's go back to the Smellavision set. I want to see them play Roller Herby (Tanzer). Ciro Masso and Ernie Mayer are on the Brooklyn team; and what a team! That women's squad really takes the cake with Sylvia Greenberg, Elizabeth Gervasi, and Ellie Balter in tonight's lineup. Switch to another channel. Is that interference? Oh no. It's Frank Parisi's latest artistic masterpiece. Bob Stanger's new paintings are also being exhibited. There's going to be another exhibit of designing work by Pat LoCicero, Antoinette Falanga, Gloria Brenner, and Ray Hougnou. Notice the musical theme in the background. It's by Gloria Lingua and Florence Owens.

Back in the great beyond there was quite a ruckus when Henry Morgan heard of the radio program in which Matty Aronoff comes on, says "Hello anybody, here's Aronoff," and his buddy, Tish Silver, says "hiya." Very popular program. They've got some stiff competition, though, since Connie Grasso and Claire Teitler teamed up on another comedy program. Say, what's all that confetti? Oh, it's not confetti. You say that Leo Durocher has been tearing up Billy Handel's column, "Manhandling Sports"? Handel's been raking over old embers eh? Durocher buys the Chronic every day just to rip up his column. The only time he doesn't is when one of Irwin Scherago's stories is on the other side. Then he burns it. Talk about sports columns, did you see Ronny Ellman's writeup on the World Soccer Championship? Brooklyn came in first, sparked by guys like Joe DiPace, Joe Aniano, Vinnie Palmieri, and Stan Fertman. Ed Moser is running a series of articles on the psychological results of "Basketball—does it stimulate growth?" It's a tough question, with tall stars like Sal Bonafede and Vinny Zoda contrasted to more compact hoopsters like Rollo DiRossi and Tony Glorioso.

The Women's Pages of these newspapers are interesting. Janet Sloan and Bea Erich write for the Chronic and Marie DiCapua and Flo Perlmutter for the Manner. Their pages are full of political stories about Sally Gurissi, 21st district, and Joan Cirrincione, 17th district. Their mail is handled by secretaries Ellen Lombardo and Doris Sagman. It was never like this back in the fifteenth century. Women knew their places then, and didn't go around producing hit shows. Rachael Abadi's smash hit about bargain counters, "What Price Gory," is being directed by Rosalie Dayton and is being produced by Joan Goldsampt. The all-female cast stars Carol Iucci, Joy Betty, Zena Frader, and Harriet Feinstein, with the singing role handled by Carmela Pirotta.

At least the magazine industry is still topped by men. Take this magazine now; it makes easy reading; it's full of pictures. Probably editor Stan Zuckerman can't read and publisher Irwin Parrish can't write. It's got a nice name though—"Strife"—The Illustrated Magazine. Among the things that keep up the circulation is the column "What Needle Should Have Known," by Paul Koreto. It's so very interesting because folks remember when he didn't even know what he shouldn't have. "Strife" also boosts subscription by featuring controversial topics of the day, like—"Does E really equal MC²?" I hear Donald Skwire has proposed the additional theory required to prove the subject—2 plus 2 equals 4. Tommy Palmenghi is claiming that he discovered it first, and called it the theory of the unjoined hypothesis—1 plus 1 equals 2, resolving itself into finality by conclusion. A very sound statement, I imagine, but it can't be accepted until Justice William Rindone declares it constitutional. Turning the pages of "Strife" I find pictures by Hal Schefts and Mark Lasser, staff photogs who just came back from the International games. They have some pretty good shots here. There's Harvey Roth on the bench of the American team. He's a great manager, leading the team to the championship. A view of the grandstands reveals Pete Cacciaguida in the visiting dignitaries' box.

If only Mr. DiGrady were here. "Chris," he'd say, "I'm sorry I expelled you from Genoa Central. If I could live my life over, I'd still have you serving detention."

Yes, those were the days. What's that you say? You want to see those photos I told you about? Tell you what I'm gonna do. For the small price of a five Lire . . .

Senior Teachers

Born in Brooklyn, Mrs. Kathryn Browne's greatest pleasure is knowing many people, particularly well behaved children. She prefers drawing and painting to any other subject and spends much of her leisure time doing art work. Traveling is one of Mrs. Browne's favorite pastimes and she also enjoys attending fashion shows although she rarely purchases anything. She believes that the graduating class is fully aware of the value of education and advises, "Always have fine ideals and reach for the highest in all of your endeavors."

Born and brought up in the fair neighborhood of Bensonhurst, Mrs. Vivian Greenfield proudly reveals that she has been an inhabitant of this section all her life. Like many Lafayetteites she attended P.S. 128, but then continued her education at New Utrecht. Mrs. Greenfield's favorite hobby is playing with her pet parrakeet who has become quite popular with her sten and typing students due to his frequent habit of chewing up their test papers.

Mrs. Betsy Antin Gross was born in Brooklyn, New York. She attended Girls High, Hunter College and Columbia University and then came to Lafayette to teach History.

Among her hobbies are gardening and skiing. Mrs. Gross is also anxious to see the disappearance of bad manners and thoughtlessness in Lafayette students.

"Seniors should live up to their responsibilities," says Mrs. Gross, "and keep in mind that the future of the world depends upon the part they play."

June, 1950

After teaching in Lafayette since its construction, Mr. Leon Halpert still claims he chose the teaching profession because of his love for children and social studies. A graduate of C.C.N.Y., Mr. Halpert is also one of the charter members of Lafayette. His pet peeve is the student who sits while reciting. Teachers are human and their hands get tired motioning for students to rise when speaking. His advice to seniors: "Not only think about yourselves, but your parents, your school, and the welfare of your community."

Even while attending elementary school Mrs. Helen L. Hauptman had decided to become a teacher, and never faltered in that decision all through her school years. She knows of no more useful calling than that of assisting young people to find themselves, to develop their capabilities, and to select the fields of endeavor in which they will most likely be successful and happy. It would be natural, then, that her pet peeve is a tergiversating senior.

Mr. Julius Jacobs left Brooklyn, his hometown, after graduating from Boys High, and continued his education at City College and Columbia University. Today, playing with his children is his favorite pastime, while athletics, music and reading help to keep him occupied. His pet peeve is the individual who lacks a sense of responsibility. In keeping with this, Mr. Jacobs believes that seniors should turn their talents, their energies and their creative abilities toward making this atomic era one of peace and growth.

Mrs. Laura LeBow was born in New York City. There she attended Wadleigh High School and New York University. She also attended the University of Lausanne, Switzerland. Besides being interested in English, which she teaches, Mrs. LeBow is a lover of the fine arts, mainly music and painting. Mrs. LeBow advises seniors to develop many interests in worthwhile things to make life richer and more interesting.

Mrs. Dorothy E. Palevsky thrills to the music of Toscanini because she is an avid symphonic music fan. Although Philadelphia is her home town, she spent the greater part of her life in New York City, where she attended Washington Irving H.S., Manual Training H.S., and N.Y.U. Mrs. Palevsky is a verified example of a person who embarked into the teaching profession by accident. She advises seniors to try to further their education by going to college or taking evening courses.

Mrs. Alice Roth was born in New York City but spent her childhood in Newburgh, New York. She attended Newburgh High School and Barnard College. Most of her free time is devoted to her 13-year-old daughter and nine-year-old son, whose ambition is to become a wrestler. She advises seniors to cultivate their tastes so as to be able to distinguish real wit from the humor of Jack Benny or Milton Berle.

Mrs. Bertha Russell is a native Brooklynite who did her college work at Hunter and Columbia. Among her many outside interests is the work she does for the Speakers' Bureau of the American Assembly for the United Nations. All other spare time is spent reading, walking or knitting. She is particularly peeved when students indulge in rythmic gum chewing, or continuous nail biting. Mrs. Russell advises seniors to have principles and convictions, and to live up to them.

Mr. Harry Schnapp was born on the lower East Side of New York and was a former frustrated pre-med student at N.Y.U. His hobby is puttering around radios and he has built his own television set (which, incidentally, doesn't work). When he isn't building television sets, Mr. Schnapp enjoys a snack consisting of a bit of cream cheese on rye toast.

He dislikes girls wearing slacks, claiming that they detract from their femininity. Mr. Schnapp advises all seniors, if financially able, to attend, and complete, a college education.

Mrs. Helen Shanahan attended many schools before joining the staff of our Girls' Health Education Department. Admiration for her own physical training teachers was the determining factor behind her choosing the course of study at the Savage School of Physical Education, N.Y.U., and Columbia. Her home life, and its activities, is her all consuming "after-three" hobby and job. Mrs. Shanahan offers this advice to seniors: "Be sincere with yourself and in your convictions."

Pert, blond, Mrs. Jeanne Stella is a native New Yorker. She readily admits that she was shy as a child and attributes the fact that she became a teacher to this trait. Quoting George Bernard Shaw she says, "Those who can, do; those who cannot, teach." Her pet-peeve is discourtesy among the pupils, which seems to be a habit these days. Her only advice to the seniors is to develop personality to its fullest extent.

This time she quotes Shakespeare—"To thine own self be true."

Mr. Samuel Zuckerman, a native New Yorker, was graduated from Boys High, and attended City College and Columbia University. Although teaching is one of his hobbies, it also appears as one of his dislikes. Mr. Zuckerman's pet peeve is having to work on school days. During spare time, he likes to do woodwork, while swimming is his favorite sport. The only thing Mr. Zuckerman can advise seniors is to, "Have fun!"

Last Will and Testament

We are parting—the teachers and we—we are parting amenably. Our friendship has been based on reciprocal agreements—give and take. They gave us homework and we took it. Our entire society in Lafayette was based on this give and take, and for quite a while things were pretty hectic.

In our years at Lafayette we have received more than we gave. We have already mentioned homework. We were also given pink cards, detention, tests, marks, etc. Since it is said that "It is better to give then receive" we are leaving these thoughts and/or objets d'art to our teachers and confessors.

TO:

Dr. Oswald . . . A new group of small, awkward, bewildered children to change into straight backed, self assured, young men and women.

Mr. Grady . . . A large office, the hope that you keep your sense of humor in your, ah, middle age, and a rousing cheer. Rah!

Mr. Pocai . . . A pretty, young assistant attendance officer and an original excuse to be absent on Mondays and Fridays.

Mr. Jacobs and Mr. Goldberg . . . For their camp we leave 500 boys and girls who have a burning passion for a rifle range, archery, tennis, and a competent staff.

Mr. Holstein . . . A toupee (for bleaching experiments, of course).
Mr. Rappaport . . . Complete control over a tenth degree holding company replete with graft and lobbyists.
Mr. Milella . . . The hope that New York's Philharmonic all move into Lafayette's district.
Mr. S. Levine . . . A guide on "How To Make Up Easy Tests."
Mr. D. Levine . . . Our sincere hope that all his conservation dreams come true.
Mr. Bloom . . . A bunch of first aid students who can tie an open head bandage with closed eyes.
Mr. Novak . . . A two hundred page issue of the "Marquis" on slick paper.
Miss Costa . . . Another invention from M.I.T., a silent student.
Miss Koechling . . . For her student court . . . Judges with the wisdom of Solomon (not necessarily with a thousand wives).
Mr. Duskis . . . Students who understand his jokes, which are undoubtedly very funny (we think).
Miss Canning . . . A bicycle pump to inflate flat a's.
Mr. Bonom . . . College applications that exude neatness.
Mr. Pincus . . . A senior who doesn't think he's a big time operator.
Mr. Horn . . . So that he doesn't spend sleepless nights counting ticket stubs, 100% subscription to all ball games.
Mr. Gebhardt . . . An issue of "The Lafayette News" that arrives promptly (just like his new daughter did),
Mrs. Dufort . . . Our thanks for changing our programs, listening to our problems, and answering our notes in a legible hand.
Cafeteria . . . To our pleasant, cheerful, and elegent eating place we leave a jug of good cheer (the 86 proof kind).
Lafayette News . . . Writers and photographers to take the place of the brilliant (sic) columnists and cameramen who are graduating this term.
The Football Team . . . A Football team.
The Unpaved Street Outside The School . . . "@'$*!‡;)(?@&%†."
Next Term's Legend Editor . . . This term's Legend editor.

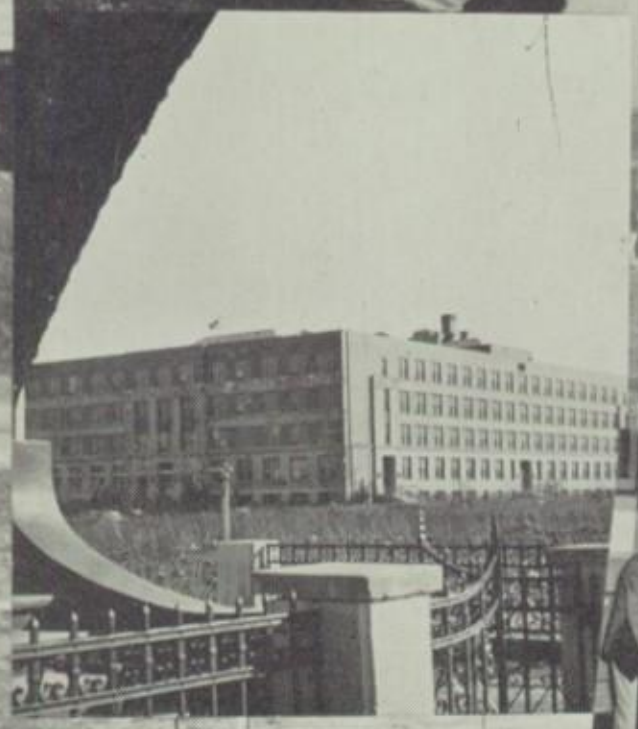
That's about all there is. The expenses of graduating have left us penniless indeed. There is one more bequest that is certainly not least. To the students—the future seniors . . . We leave them the heritage that was left to us. Oh . . . your aching backs.

Writ by Hand in the Presence of the detention hall teacher on this day of June, 1950.

THE SENIOR CLASS
Paul Koreto, Scribe

When Earth's last picture is painted and the tubes are twisted and dried,
When the oldest colors have faded, and the youngest critic has died,
We shall rest, and, faith, we shall need it—lie down for an aeon or two,
Till the Master of All Good Workmen shall put us to work anew.

—Kipling



Modern Efficiency

OR

A Century of Destruction In Four Short Years

Scientists have estimated that human beings spend one-third of their natural lives asleep or resting. Anthropologists have also estimated that the average student, until the time he graduates high school, spends an almost equal amount of time in school. Logically, it would appear that the school would have had an important effect on our past and future happiness and outlook on life.

Let's look back on our four years in Lafayette. Let's go beyond regents, finals, and report cards to the good things in school life: the football games, the clubs, the people we've met, and even some of the teachers.

It was during the fall term of '47 that the City of New York gave a present to the students of Lafayette that would be appreciated for decades to come. Bay 43 Street was paved. Besides eliminating that last stretch of mud and icy pitfalls, the noise of the construction drowned out the teachers on that side of the school.

Two new amendents were added onto the G.O. Constitution. They provided that the G.O. President serve at least one term on the G.O. Council, or sit in on their meetings; and that the Vice-President serve at least one term on the Student Court, or sit in on their meetings.

At that time, Lafayette third-termers hoped to see a football stadium on the field by the time they graduated. Although, through the years, those same innocent, idealistic third-termers have been hardened by Regents exams and the rigors of the daily safari to Lafayette, and grown cynical and mundane, they still have not lost hope. They expect to see a stadium at Lafayette when their children are graduated.

In the Spring term of 1948, Lafayette was honored by a visit from Harold Russell, the armless vet who played in the Academy Award winning film, The Best Years of Our Lives.

The first annual Tri-School Dance was held at Lincoln, with the M.C. from New Utrecht. Six hundred, including a goodly representation from Lafayette, attended. The Varsity Show that year was The Man Who Came To Dinner, starring Hugo Puglia. The Cheering Squad won a gold trophy in the Loews cheerleader contest.

The following term Danny Luciano was elected President of the G.O. A campaign was on to clean up the cafeteria. The teachers were beaten by the Junior Coaches and Leaders in a volleyball game to benefit needy children. That term New York City celebrated its fiftieth anniversary and the athletic teams and band marched in the big parade.

1949 was the tenth anniversary of Lafayette and the school celebrated in a big way. A scholarship fund was started. Also a portrait of the Marquis de Lafayette was presented to the school by Le Commitee Francais de Souvenior de Lafayette. The impressive ceremony, at which the grandson of George Clemenceau was present, was recorded and broadcast on Voice of America.

GIRLS IN SPORTS

Gingerly we entered the gym, conscious of the hush that ensued and the stares that followed us. Nervously we looked at the proud and haughty girls clad in maroon uniforms surrounding us. For we were the new batch of Leaders, ready to start our training which would some day enable us to become Junior Coaches. Little did we realize how much of our future days in Lafayette would be spent in these surroundings.

The weeks and months that followed were a maze of sports. Guard your man; jump ball; side out; badminton is a "wrist" movement; strike one, ball two; these were only some of the expressions that became all too familiar to us. Every afternoon we remained in school for such clubs as basketball, softball, volleyball, tennis, handball, and badminton. We learned not only how to play these sports, but also to referee them. But it was more than the games themselves, for it was the good sportsmanship we learned and the feeling we got after playing a good, clean game.

And finally, after two terms of listening and being taught, we became Junior Coaches and were ready to teach others. Some of us had even become outstanding in various sports. Liz Gervasi, Coach vice-president, showed excellent form on the basketball court, and soon became one of the star forwards of our team. Vinny Sicurella, Coach treasurer, was as nimble at second base as she was on the volleyball court. Few girls could beat Eleanor Balter on the tennis, badminton, and handball courts. Flo Mancine was outstanding in volleyball and basketball, as was Marilyn Umansky in handball and volleyball. Sylvia Greenberg, Coach president, played basketball as well as she played first base on our softball team.

And then our work in the gym classes began. We helped the teachers instruct the girls in, not only all the sports, but in modern dancing, folk dancing and stunts. We worked with such excellent modern dance exponents as Judith Schwartz, Molly Stecker, Mildred Vinceguerra, and Connie Grasso. We had the experience of playing basketball with Joan Cirrincione and Joan Campo, two girls who really gave us competition. And we also came in contact with such all-around athletes as Ellen Mae Young and Vivian Buffo.

I'm sure that the entire graduating class remembers the tremendous show that was put on by the gym department in the spring of '49. Under the excellent direction of the teachers we showed every phase of the girls' athletic life at Lafayette since the school was constructed. There was a basketball demonstration, folk, tap, and modern dancing, stunts, and the Big Apple. Our performances received a tremendous ovation, and I'm certain that all of us remember it, for, of the ninety participants, many were the girls of this graduating class.

Lafayette has proved to be a place for more than just academic instruction. It has become a school where we learn how to physically train our bodies and how to work and play alongside others with friendship and sportsmanship as our goal.

SYLVIA GREENBERG

BOYS IN SPORTS

During the last half century, the high schools of New York have steadily been building reputations in various athletic fields. Lafayette has achieved athletic recognition in the short time of a decade.

Up until 1947, Lafayette had the reputation of possessing one of the poorest football teams in the city. In the three short years since Harry Ostro took over the reins of the gridders, Lafayette has become one of the dominant powers in P.S.A.L. competition. In 1949, the Eleven posted the most victories ever recorded by a Maroon team.

Next year's team will sorely miss the great broken field running of Ciro Masso and the solid linework of Herby Tanzer.

As tradition has it the soccer team, under the leadership of Coach Sy Yudell has once again brought the Brooklyn Soccer Crown to Lafayette. The booters will lose the services of three outstanding All-Scholastic players. "Snooty" Fertman, our splendid goalie, Herman Druckman and Vinnie Palmieri, who also started for the varsity nine, will be among the outstanding graduates of the June '50 class.

Other standout booters who will graduate are Co-Captain Joe Aniano, Paul Kaltinick, John Kovacs, Joe DiPace, and Dick Menahem.

Once again the Lafayette Cagers have developed their share of standout players. Sal Bonafede paced the team with two hundred and seven points and Vinnie Zoda captured second place with one hundred ninety-five points. Captain Rollo De Rossi, Tony Glorioso, Ralph Longo and Coach George Eggers also departed.

The baseball team, under tutelage of their new coach, "Chuck" Sheerin, have just completed another successful season. Their greatest loss will be last year's All-Scholastic catcher, Mike Napoli.

One of the lesser publicized squads in the school, the handball team, under Julie Jacobs, will feel the loss of Co-Captains Howie Jagoda and Max Braverman. Monroe Horden, one of the outstanding doubles players in the city, will also receive his diploma this June.

The class of June '50 has witnessed the formation of a new squad in Lafayette. A Rifle Team, guided by Mr. Berk, has been entered in P.S.A.L. competition. Sharpshooting Joe Incantalupo will be long remembered as the first captain of the team.

The graduates of June 1950, who played on the varsity teams, have upheld the honor and tradition of Lafayette High School. We hope that future graduating classes will continue to retain this fine tradition.
